

Compassionate and Compelling Circumstances

Policy

Unique International College will assess whether compassionate or compelling circumstances exist, based on documented evidence provided by the student.

The evidence will be reviewed and a decision made at the discretion of Unique International College.

Definition

Compassionate or compelling circumstances are generally those beyond the control of the student, when they have an impact on the student's course progress or wellbeing. These could include:

- serious illness or injury;
- death or illness of close family members such as parents or grandparents
- major political upheaval or natural disaster in the international student's home country requiring emergency travel and this has impacted, or will impact, on the student's studies;
- a traumatic experience which could include:
  - Involvement in, or witnessing of a serious accident; or
  - Witnessing or being the victim of a serious crime, and this has impacted on the student;
- Where UIC was unable to offer a pre-requisite unit;
- Inability to begin studying on the course commencement date due to delay in receiving a student visa.
- Where a student fails occasional units throughout the course, but has not done so poorly as to be picked up by Unique International College's SMP 144 Student course progress policy

International students may also defer or suspend their studies with UIC for other reasons; however, the student will be required to provide compelling documentary evidence to support their request.
